

YES! It's Live!

We are excited to announce the new web site is now available to the public. The new fs.lubeadvisor.com web site advises users of the recommended FS lubricants, coolants, or grease for their specific on-road or off-road equipment. It is accessible on the web for computers, tablet, and phones.

So how does FS Lube Advisor work? A computer database is updated monthly with new information from Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEM)s. The information includes OEM specifications, fill quantities, recommended viscosity grades, and more. Users are invited to enter a piece of equipment and the tool will "advise" the user of the recommended FS products.

We encourage you to explore both sites, www.gofurthergofs.com and fs.lubeadvisor.com, and see how they work together to provide the latest information regarding equipment needs and top performing FS branded lubricants, grease and coolants.
